UNIVERSITY HOSTS
TELECONFERENCE

News Release

DAYTON, Ohio, September 27, 1984 -- The Center for Religious Telecommunications at the University of Dayton is hosting a video-teleconference on Tuesday, October 2, which will discuss the Pastoral on Hispanics in light of its impact on the local and national church. The video-teleconference will also address ways of using the resources of the Catholic Telecommunications Network of America (CTNA) more effectively in Catholic colleges and universities throughout the United States. The project is funded by the Catholic Communications Campaign and UD.

Approximately 40 people from 10 Catholic universities and dioceses from the tri-state area will be involved. Large and small group discussions will work on identifying questions and issues involved in the Pastoral.

The teleconference "will enable the church to acknowledge the presence of Hispanics as a creative element in the life of the church and to respond to that presence in a generous way," said the Rev. Joseph P. Fitzpatrick, S.J., of Fordham University, who is facilitating the video-teleconference as it originates out of New York.

The conference in Kennedy Memorial Union will begin with registration at 10 a.m. and will end at 4 p.m. after a questions and comments forum. For more information contact Sister Angela Ann Zukowski, M.H.S.H., or Brother Phil Aaron, S.M., at (513) 229-3126.
